

Nordea consolidates and modernizes their communication and integration infrastructure using SEEBURGER Business Integration Suite

Nordea, the largest financial services group in Northern Europe with a market capitalization of approximately EUR 24bn, have chosen SEEBURGER for consolidation and modernization of their business communication and integration infrastructure.

Facing a distributed and fragmented infrastructure and continuous growth in the volume of file-based transactions, the existing solutions were, in many cases, locally duplicated and very costly. By consolidating all communications and integrations in one solution, Nordea will be able to improve its customer offerings, shorten its time-to-market, reduce operational risks and lower costs.

While selecting a solution, it was important to Nordea that there were many unique functions such as user-friendly end-to-end tracking and tracing, extensive customer self-service features, flexible search and resend capabilities, governance, an out-of-the-box client enablement module and extensive capabilities for automated migration and testing. With SEEBURGER Business Integration Suite, Nordea expects major cost savings and to have the means for the organization to be more effective and structured. Nordea will be in line with today's requirements and also prepared for tomorrow's market demands. Nordea has also mitigated their risk in several areas and can focus on developing the business.

»By creating one global solution instead of the currently many local solutions it will be possible to pool the knowledge globally both on the business and IT side. With this in place we will have a customer value adding, competitive and cost efficient e-channel offering which is of key importance for the total cash management offering from Nordea«, says Claus Richter, Head of Cash Management Process Management, Global, Nordea. »I was really impressed by the engagement and flexibility that SEEBURGER showed. We had full access to the SEEBURGER Development Team and they were really perceptive about our needs and also future requirements. Of course you need a good solution to start with and I think the SEEBURGER Business Integration Suite is excellent and obviously the best solution for Nordea's consolidation and modernization project.«
